

ABSTRACT

Submandibular peptides have been isolated and characterized and provide pharmaceutical compositions for the treatment or prevention of anaphylactic reactions, endotoxic reactions and SIRS-induced shock.